Gale Artemis: Primary Sources

An integrated research experience, Gale Artemis unifies expansive digital archives onto a single platform and enables researchers to make never-before-possible research connections. No other publisher offers this unmatched combination of unusually rich full-text content, dependable metadata, and intuitive subject indexing – all enriched by workflow and analytical technology that breathes new life into the study of the humanities.

Gale Artemis: Primary Sources offers an unparalleled cross-search platform

Collections

Eighteenth Century Collections Online (ECCO)
Consisting of every significant English-language and foreign-language title printed in the United Kingdom during the 18th century, along with thousands of important works from the Americas, Eighteenth Century Collections Online is the most ambitious single digitisation project ever undertaken. Bearing witness to what many scholars consider the three most significant events in world history - The American Revolution, The French Revolution, and The Industrial Revolution - this resource features: full-text search capabilities, canonical titles of the period as well as contemporary works that analyse and debate those titles, and works by both well-known and lesser-known authors.

Nineteenth Century Collections Online (NCCO)
Nineteenth Century Collections Online is the result of partnerships between Gale and almost 100 libraries to preserve and digitise content for academic research. With guidance and feedback of professionals and end-users to ensure that unique, invaluable documents were selected, digitised, and preserved, NCCO presents a wide range of content covering the “long” nineteenth century and beyond by uniting multiple, distinct archives into a single resources of over 100 types of primary source documents.

emea.galereply@cengage.com
The Making of Modern Law
Offered in eight distinct collections (seven of which are currently available through the Gale Artemis platform). The Making of Modern Law provides researchers with a logical, interdisciplinary approach to the study of modern law. Together, these archives cover nearly every aspect of American and British law and also dig deep into other parts of Europe, Latin America, Canada, Australia, India, and other jurisdictions, both ancient and contemporary. Encompassing a range of analytical, theoretical, and practical literature for research in legal history, these collections support and complement the traditional study of law by featuring valuable literature from the most influential writers and key legal thinkers of the time.

Brazilian and Portuguese History and Culture: The Oliveira Lima Library
Originally the personal library of the Brazilian diplomat, historian, and journalist Manoel de Oliveira Lima; the Oliveira Lima Library has long been regarded as one of the finest collections of Luso-Brazilian materials available to academics. Now this collection of rare and unique pamphlets is available in a new archive containing a ratio of approximately 70% Brazilian content to 30% Portuguese. The large majority of which is comprised of Portuguese language materials with additional content provided in English, Spanish, French, Italian, German, and a number of other languages.

Making of the Modern World, Parts I and II
Comprised of two collections that span 1450 to 1914, Making of the Modern World offers an abundance of rare primary source materials, including monographs, serials, reports, correspondence, speeches, surveys, and proclamations. For researchers of world history, political science, philosophy, business, economics, law, and women's studies, these collections provide a unique and in-depth view into more than 450 years of history through the lens of trade and wealth.

Indigenous Peoples: North America
Enabling exploration of the political, social, and cultural history of the Native peoples from the seventeenth century well into the twentieth century, Indigenous Peoples: North America illustrates the fabric of North American history with unprecedented depth and breadth. Comprehensive yet personal, this collection provides a robust, diverse, and appealing search experience and enables intelligent inquiry into the culture and heritage of indigenous people of the United States and Canada, representing over 68 tribes in the process.

gale.cengage.co.uk/artemisprimary
Sabin Americana, 1500-1926
Accessing more than 425 years of history, Sabin Americana offers diverse perspectives on the evolution of the Americas—including life in North, Central, and South America, and the West Indies. This digital archive provides a firsthand account on all aspects of the Americas, including discovery and exploration; slavery and European colonisation; Native Peoples; wars of independence; religion and missionary work; social and political reforms; economic development; westward expansion; notable individuals; and much more.

Smithsonian Collections Online
Gale and the Smithsonian Institution have partnered to give libraries a unique opportunity to provide faculty, researchers, and students the chance to look behind the glass of the world’s largest museum and research complex. Now, content that was previously only available onsite at the Smithsonian Institution has been converted to a digital, searchable format. The digitised documents within Smithsonian Collections Online are rich in their ability to serve as the source of new and exciting scholarship.

Associated Press Collections Online
From the Mexican War to the events of this past day, the Associated Press has covered breaking news when and where it occurs—but the printed page is just the beginning. Now, researchers can look beyond the reporting for this not-for-profit news cooperative and uncover its context, backstory, and logistics over the past seven decades with the Associated Press Collections Online, available in six ground-breaking archives. Content types include: news features, wire copy, personal papers of reporters and administrators, AP World and other serial publications, staff and company news, and reporting from bureaus across the globe.

All libraries who own at least two compatible collections have automatic access to the Gale Artemis experience. Contact your rep today or email emea.galereply@cengage.com to learn more.

GALE ARTEMIS
CREATING THE WORLD’S LARGEST ONLINE CURATED PRIMARY SOURCE & REFERENCE COLLECTIONS

emea.galereply@cengage.com
19th Century UK Periodicals
A major multi-part series covering the events, lives, values and themes that shaped the 19th century world. It is an invaluable resource for the study of British life in the 19th century – from art to business, and from children to politics.

19th Century US Newspapers
With digital facsimile images of hundreds of 19th century US newspapers, this resource provides an as-it-happened window on events, culture, and daily life in 19th century America.

British Newspapers 1600-1950
The most significant digital collection of national, regional, and local British historic newspapers. The series provide a range of publications to reflect the social, political and cultural events of the times.

Daily Mail Historical Archive, 1896-2004
The Daily Mail has been at the heart of British journalism since 1896, regularly changing the course of government policy and setting national debate. The archive also contains the Atlantic Editions, printed on board the transatlantic cruise liners from 1923 to 1931.

The Financial Times Historical Archive, 1888-2010
The complete archive of the world’s most authoritative daily business newspaper. This is an essential, comprehensive and unbiased research tool for everyone studying public affairs, economics and financial history.

The Illustrated London News Historical Archive, 1842-2003
The world’s first illustrated weekly newspaper presented a vivid picture of British and world events - including war, disasters, royalty, social affairs, the arts, and science.

The Independent Digital Archive, 1986-2012
Launched as a newspaper free from party political bias and free from proprietorial influence, the newspaper continues to emphasise its unique position in British journalism as the only paper with neutral ownership.

Liberty Magazine Historical Archive, 1924-1950
This digital collection provides a unique opportunity to view Liberty and how it charted the moods, attitudes, lifestyles, fads, and fortunes of middle class America through its three most significant decades.
The Listener Historical Archive, 1929-1991
This weekly newspaper published by the BBC is an essential witness to the intellectual and cultural history of the twentieth century, and also to the golden years of radio and television.

Picture Post Historical Archive, 1838-1957
This iconic newspaper defined the style of photojournalism in the 20th century. It is essential for studying international social and political issues of the day, and how they were brought into popular consciousness.

The Sunday Times Digital Archive, 1822-2006
In close to 600,000 pages, The Sunday Times Digital Archive is a gateway to the greatest crimes, careers and culture of the last 180 years.

The Times Digital Archive
First published in 1785, The Times of London is widely considered to be the world’s ‘newspaper of record’. The Times Digital Archive allows users to search over 200 years of this invaluable historical source.

Times Literary Supplement Historical Archive
The Times Literary Supplement has scrutinised, applauded and dissected the work of leading writers and thinkers, offering coverage of the most important publications, in every subject, in several languages, as well as reviewing current theatre, cinema, music, and exhibitions.

Crime, Punishment, and Popular Culture, 1790-1920
This digital archive presents a broad history of crime in the long 19th Century, appealing to historians and literary scholars, as well as scholars in the areas of law and criminal justice.

The Economist Historical Archive
The Economist is generally regarded as one of the world’s pre-eminent weekly newspapers with an unrivalled reputation as a primary source of intelligent and reliable information through its consistently independent editorial perspective and intelligent analysis of events.

Punch Historical Archive, 1841-1992
From 1841 to 1992 Punch was the world’s most celebrated magazine of humour and satire - imitated, parodied and pirated from America to India and Japan. The archive provides a unique insight into the politics, culture and society of the 19th and 20th centuries.

The Telegraph Historical Archive, 1855-2000
A fully searchable digital archive of what was once the world’s largest selling newspaper. Search across 1 million pages of the newspaper’s backfile from its first issue to the end of 2000, including issues of the Sunday Telegraph from 1961.

emea.galereply@cengage.com
TERM FREQUENCY

The term frequency tool aids students in tracking central themes and ideas. Students can now see the frequency of their search term within content to begin assessing how individuals, events, and ideas interacted and developed over time.

TERM CLUSTERS

The term clusters assist students in thoroughly developing their research topic. By identifying and organising commonly occurring themes, this tool reveals hidden connections to search terms—helping students shape their research and integrate diverse content with relevant information.

SEARCH ASSIST

Detailed subject indexing guides students in gathering relevant information from multiple sources to expose connections that simple search and retrieve does not. Whether conducting a short or a sustained research project, students will easily perform advanced searches to synthesise and select appropriate information.

Gale Artemis

An entirely new research experience

The ground-breaking research environment that brings newfound discovery, relevance, and simplicity

Named for the Greek goddess symbolising new ideas, discovery, power, and ‘the hunt’, Gale Artemis is an unprecedented, seamlessly integrated research experience for users across all levels of expertise.

gale.cengage.co.uk/artemisprimary
HIT YOUR RESEARCH TARGETS USING UNIQUE TOOLS AND SPECIAL CROSS-SEARCH FUNCTIONALITY

To register for a FREE TRIAL or for more information email: emea.galereply@cengage.com or visit: gale.cengage.co.uk/artemisprimary