

State Papers Online, 1509-1714

A ground breaking online resource for the study of Early Modern British History

State Papers Online, 1509-1714 combines State Papers Domestic and Foreign and the Registers of the Privy Council and presents these primary sources in a new easy to search and easy to browse format.

- Cross-searching of the previously separated “Domestic” and “Foreign” State Papers
- Reproduction in facsimile of original manuscript documents with over 2 millions pages
- Links to and from fully searchable Calendar entries (transcript or abstract) to the original Paper which overcomes the difficulty of matching an individual Calendar entry to the original Paper
- Additional research tools such as lists of abbreviations, glossary, palaeographic aids, notes on members of council and other figures
- Essays on major themes or topics covered by the material by leading scholars in the field with links to the relevant documents

The display of the documents alongside the Calendar entries enables academics and students to read the complete text of the document with any annotations and compare it with its Calendar entry.

As the official records of the Secretaries of State serving the ruling monarch of the day, the State Papers contain correspondence, reports, memoranda, Parliamentary drafts and depositions from ambassadors, civil servants and provincial administrators on almost every subject. This online collection provides new scope and material for research and teaching projects in politics, government, and social, economic, and religious history covering the whole of the Sixteenth and Seventeenth centuries.

This project is a working partnership between Cengage Learning, The National Archives of the UK and the British Library, and is guided by an academic Advisory Board of British and American scholars

State Papers Online will be released in four stages and when complete will form one comprehensive online archive.

<http://gale.cengage.co.uk/statepapers/>

FEATURES:

- Over 2 million digitized pages
- Unites the State Papers Domestic and Foreign and the Registers of the Privy Council
- Ability to match an individual Calendar entry to the original Paper
- Essays on major themes or topics covered by the material with links to the documents

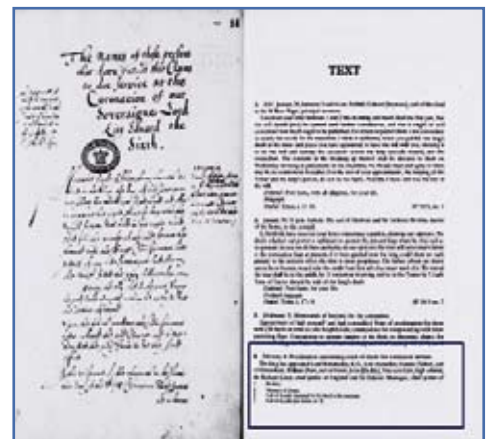

Illustration shows a state paper (left) and page of Calendar entries (right). The Calendar entry for this document is outlined.

ADVISORY BOARD:

Editor for Parts I and II: Dr Stephen Alford, University of Cambridge

- Dr Amanda Bevan, The National Archives
- Dr John Cooper, University of York
- Professor Tom Cogswell, University of California, Riverside
- Dr Richard Cust, University of Birmingham
- Professor Norman Jones, Utah State University
- Professor John Miller, Queen Mary University of London
- Professor John Morrill, University of Cambridge
- Dr Neil Younger, University of Birmingham

CONTENTS OF PART ONE:

Part 1: The Tudors, Henry VIII to Elisabeth I, 1509-1603: State Papers Domestic

[SP 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 10, 11, 12, 13, 15, BL Lansdowne Collection Burghley Papers, with Calendars to all, Calendars and transcriptions of the Cecil Papers, Hatfield House]

Part 1 offers the complete collection of State Papers Domestic for the Tudor era. They contain information on every facet of early modern government, including social and economic affairs, law and order, religious policy, crown possessions and intelligence as well as references to foreign policy.

Key themes covered in this collection include:

- Henry VIII's relations with Europe
- The Divorce Crisis
- Henry VIII's break with Rome and establishment of the Church of England
- The Dissolution of the Monasteries
- The Pilgrimage of Grace
- Catholic and Protestant conflict
- The Reformation
- The Dudley Conspiracy
- Relations between the Crown and the nobility
- Mary I's Marriage with Philip II of Spain
- Elizabeth I's Marriage and the Succession
- Relations between England and Spain
- Voyages of Discovery of Drake, Gilbert, Hawkins and Frobisher
- The rise and fall of the Earl of Essex
- Campaign against Tyrone's Irish Rebellion

Part 1 essays:

- Introduction – Dr Stephen Alford, University of Cambridge
- State Papers of Henry VIII: The Archives and The Documents - Dr Amanda Bevan, The National Archives
- State Papers of Edward VI, Mary I and Elizabeth I: The Archives and The Documents - Dr Stephen Alford
- The Calendars and their Editors 1856-2006 - Dr C.S.Knighton, Lately Editor of State Papers, The National Archives
- The Tudor Monarchy - Dr John Cooper, University of York
- The Tudor State - Dr Neil Younger, University of Birmingham
- Tudor Society - Matthew Clark, University of Cambridge
- Henry VIII and the Break with Rome - Dr Richard Rex, University of Cambridge
- Politicians and Statesmen I: Thomas Wolsey (1470/1-1530), Wolsey and the State papers: War, Diplomacy, Government and Politics in Early Tudor England - David Grummitt, History of Parliament
- Politicians and Statesmen II: William Cecil, Lord Burghley (1520-98) - Dr Stephen Alford

FORTHCOMING PARTS:

Part II: The Tudors, Henry VIII to Elisabeth I, 1509-1603: State Papers Foreign, Ireland, Scotland, Borders and Acts of Privy Council

[SP 49, 50, 51, 52, 53, 59, 60, 61, 62, 63, 65, 66, 68, 69, 70, 71, 75, 77, 78, 79, 80, 81, 82, 83, 84, 85, 88, 89, 91, 92, 93, 94, 95, 96, 97, 98, 99, 101, 102, 103, 104, 105, 106, 108, Acts of the Privy Council, with Calendars or lists to all]

Part III: James I, to Anne, 1603-1714: State Papers Domestic [SP 8, 14, 16, 17, 18, 20, 21, 22, 24, 25, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 38, 40, 41, 42, 44, BL Coke Papers, with Calendars to all]

Part IV: James I to Anne, 1603-1714: State Papers Foreign, Ireland and Acts of Privy Council

[SP 47, 57, 63, 64, 65, 66, 67, 71, 75, 76, 77, 78, 79, 80, 81, 82, 84, 85, 86, 87, 88, 89, 90, 91, 92, 93, 94, 95, 96, 97, 98, 99, 101, 102, 103, 104, 105, 106, 108, 112, Acts of the Privy Council with Calendars or lists to all]

'Any early modern historian would "give their right arm" for State Papers Online. Containing facsimile manuscript material as well as the printed calendars, it is an absolutely fantastic - and unrivalled - resource for early modernists working on a huge range of topics.'
Dr Garthine Walker, University of Cardiff

'State Papers Online is a core resource for all British history of the early modern period. It is an essential source for political and religious historians but also as useful for social and cultural historians. The State Papers can help us answer what is meant by the state and what were its functions.'
Dr Mark Knights, University of Warwick