Thousands flee Australia's biggest blaze for 50 years

Bush fires invade Sydney

THOUSANDS of Sydney residents fled their homes as bush fires swept through the city on Saturday, the largest fire in the city's history since the 1939 bushfires.

The fire, which started in the north-western suburb of Ashfield, spread rapidly through the city, forcing thousands of people to evacuate their homes.

Firefighters were working to contain the blaze, but the wind was a major factor in its spread. The fire reached the city centre, where it threatened several major buildings.

The fire was caused by a power line fault, and the Sydney Electricity Board has promised to investigate the cause.

The fire is the largest in the city's history since the 1939 bushfires, which killed over 100 people and destroyed thousands of homes.

The fire is now under control, but firefighters are still working to clear the area. The fire has caused significant damage to property and infrastructure.

The fire is a reminder of the danger of bushfires in Sydney, and the need for better fire safety measures.

Issue Display/Results:
